

EEI Celebrates

Lunar
New Year

January 29, 2025

Lunar New Year

“

In 2025, we welcome the Year of the Snake, symbolizing wisdom, resilience, and transformation. I appreciate how the celebrations conclude with the lantern festival, where we admire glowing lanterns, solve riddles, and enjoy tuán yuán, which represents unity and new beginnings.

”

Huiyi Jackson

Senior Director, Clean Energy Technologies and Policy
Energy Supply and Finance

Lunar New Year

“

恭喜發財,新年快樂

Wishing you good fortune and a happy new year!

2025 is the year 4723 on the Chinese lunar calendar – the Year of the Snake. This is a time for family reunions, with a 15-day celebration leading up to the Lantern Festival. Traditional activities include receiving red envelopes filled with money, lion and dragon dances, fireworks, and a reunion dinner.

I have been part of D.C.'s Chinese New Year Parade since 2004. Join us in Chinatown for the festivities on February 2, beginning at 2:00 pm.

”

Jeanny Ho

Director, Operations & Customer Support
Information Technology

Lunar New Year

“

The Chinese Lunar New Year is a time for family and tradition – a reminder that even in the darkest winter, humanity and family bring us together to celebrate.

The Lunar New Year is the unbroken thread connecting our past, present, and future.

”

Bruce Feng
Project Manager
Information Technology